AlstraSoft AskMe Pro is the perfect expert knowledge management system that allows you to run your own highly profitable expert advice service just like Google Answers. Give your users an alternative and easier way of getting expert's advice. AskMe allows your users to post questions and set the question price, experts will then reply with the answers and users will send payment in order to view the answers. You earn money whenever a question has been successfully answered. AskMe is paypal integrated and 100% template driven. Great for existing sites looking to add value for their members as well as building up their community or site owners looking to start their own niche expert advice service.
